“A SECLUDED AND EXCLUSIVE STAY IN THE HEART OF RURAL PERTHSHIRE”

The Glenturret, Scotland’s Oldest Working Distillery, is delighted to introduce The Aberturret Estate House – a 19th century Dower house formerly owned by the Murray Clan who founded The Glenturret Distillery more than 260 years ago.

Hidden within the woodland area of The Hosh, and surrounded by elegant gardens overlooking the River Turret, The Aberturret Estate House offers our Glenturret Lalique Restaurant guests, six individual rooms for a relaxing overnight experience.

Nestled in the picturesque heart of rural Perthshire, The Aberturret Estate House seamlessly blends the allure of country living with the refinement of a luxurious retreat.

Our overnight experiences includes a relaxed country breakfast in our contemporary open planned kitchen and dining room.

“A CELEBRATION OF SCOTTISH DESIGN, CRAFTSMANSHIP AND ARTISTRY.”

With traditional features such as moulded cornice combined seamlessly with modern design elements, state-of-the-art appliances and a eclectic collection of vinyl music from Scottish Artists, the historic character of Aberturret House has been enhanced with contemporary interior design.

Inspired by the Highland landscape and the whisky heritage of The Glenturret Distillery, the rooms are decorated in muted tones, complete with soft furnishings crafted from Bute Fabric and historic Harris Tweeds, contemporary pottery from Scottish based potters Jono Smart, Hazel Frost & Ingot Objects, and custom furniture pieces.

The house also plays host to a collection of works by Scottish artists from across the last two centuries including Edward Arthur Walton, Joseph Farquharson And Sir Eduardo Paolozzi carefully curated in partnership with the Fine Art Society.

The Aberturret Estate House is a true celebration of Scottish design, craftsmanship and artistry, which will leave you with unforgettable memories of this hidden gem within Perthshire.
